Part-A: Trade, Investment, Economy, Industry & commerce update

1. Davos: Business leaders bet on India with $ 30 trillion in GDP projection as Delhi showcases growth, stability:

India used the World Economic Forum in Davos to project confidence in its economic trajectory, with political leaders and business executives striking a rare bipartisan note on growth, stability, and long-term scale. Union minister Ashwini Vaishnaw said India is currently the fastest-growing major economy globally, with a consistent growth path of 6–8 per cent projected over the next five years. “We will become the world’s third-largest economy, but six or seven trillion dollars for a population of over 1.5 billion does not add up,” Sunil Bharti Mittal said in Davos. “To truly arrive, we must scale to $25–30 trillion. The timing may vary, but the destination is clear and unavoidable.”

2. D K Shivakumar says states in North, South no match for talent in Karnataka:

Karnataka Deputy Chief Minister DK Shivakumar showed confidence in the talent pool of his state, and said no other regions, including North India, were a match. "You may give anything. You may create any type of infrastructure. Without your brain, without your heart, without your weather, no one can work. The cosmopolitan culture, the weather, you can't match Bengaluru and Karnataka" the Congress veteran confidently said.

13. India's space tech surge: A moonshot moment:

A decade ago, India's ambitions in space rested mostly on Indian Space Research Organisation (Isro)'s shoulders. Today, the landscape has transformed. The space sector now buzzes with founders, investors, and new policies. What began as a government-driven project has exploded into an entrepreneurial revolution of chasing the stars with business plans. This is indeed most desirable; with an expanding ambit of action, Isro can't be expected to do everything without faltering.

14. New drugs could reach market sooner as govt. halves trial review timeline:

In a bid to accelerate manufacturing of a new drug or investigational drug, the government has reduced the time taken to review such applications by half. To make the approval procedure even faster, manufacturers of drugs can start the process of clinical trials or bioequivalence studies by making a prior "intimation" to the drug regulator, instead of obtaining its "permission" that was earlier required.
